Giphy Netflix has brought us many great things, like every episode of Gossip Girl and one of our most beloved characters, Crazy Eyes. But there's one big problem, and no, we're not talking about how addictive it is. If you've ever used Netflix you'll know its search functionality is pretty pants. If there are thousands of movies on Netflix, why is our homepage always offering just to go with it? Netflix is all down to a fantasy algorithm that offers movies based on user habits. But if you want to branch out offered movies for you and watch a tear-jerking documentary instead of another episode of 90210, it can be tricky to look for their full library. Enter the life-changing Netflix hack. All you have to do to unlock all Netflix movies is to insert this link into the toolbar - bring up a different subcategory, you just replace XXXX with a number. A table of these codes has been released and you can see all the numbers right here.
